VOLUME 31: JANUARY 2012

HAPPY 2012!!! What a great New Year's Eve celebration at The Brick. Simply stated, Mario Rocco is incredible and, combined with my staff, we offered a wonderful evening of great food, fun and entertainment. I really hadn't paid any attention, but one Georgetown couple shared with me their observation and concern that people from Georgetown were very much the minority of the crowd. He asked me the million dollar question – one I've had since we opened The Brick – "Where are all the people who want so much for The Brick to be here and to thrive?" I suppose we will never know, but to those who are concerned, I've got some plans to attempt to increase the support from the local community. This support certainly does not dictate The Brick's level of success, but local interest plays a big part in what drove me to do this in the first place – and I have to admit that there are many days when I second guess my decision. Be that as it may, my passion for this piece of Georgetown's history is what keeps me going ... what keeps me working toward my hope that my efforts will play some part in making Georgetown, Delaware a destination versus a sleepy little pass-thru town. So, simply keep your eyes and ears open for things going on at The Brick that just might be of interest to you and – when you can – come out and support us!

MUSIC MUSIC MUSIC.... Every Wednesday, Friday & Saturday you can dine to the incredible talent of Fonsie Scott or Karen Murdock. Fonsie performs magic on his keyboard, and provides a very laid back, enjoyable evening of background music. Saturday nights are the night you'll want to join us if you want to expand your dinner out to tapping your toes and exhibiting some of your best dance moves. Vocalist, Karen Murdock, is just simply awesome – since we've had trouble keeping people in their seats during her dinner performances (only kidding!), we figure it's best to just go with it and open up some dance floor space. And every Saturday night, there will be a $19.99 dinner special...I've given my chef my list and the specials will change based upon the freshest product we can get. But high on my list are things like a Lobster Bake, Black & Blue New York Strip, and more! Best thing to do is just plan on an awesome dinner (as usual!), but if you feel the need to know, do call or just jump onto our website. Reservations not required, but are always suggested.

INNSIDE NEWS ~ 2011 represented another year of occupancy growth for the Inn, and we've already got many reservations (repeat guests) for the upcoming Spring & Summer months. I did something interesting with a Living Social offer in November that resulted in over 130 2-night packages sold. These folks will be visiting Georgetown up through the end of March. I have to say that those who have visited so far are incredibly impressed with the beauty of The Brick and The Circle!
